

THE SHAH'S HAREM.

A Teheran correspondent of the London Globe writes: "Most of the ladies of the Shah's harem have small separate establishments, but all live in the palace, the doors and windows of their rooms looking out into a large quadrangular court. Some wives occupy suites of apartments, others have only one or two rooms. The Shah's harem, like other well-conducted establishments of the kind, is shrouded in mystery, and the European ladies who have occasionally visited it cannot tell us much. These ladies visit the harem on certain holidays, when every inmate is gay and happy, and they, there is, see only the bright side of harem life. There is, of course, a dark side; but of this nothing certain is known to the outer world, and the members of the harem are discreet, and do not blab. The Shah is said to be a kind master, and his wives always speak of him with affection and respect. Extraordinary precautions are always taken to prevent males from getting inside, and the European ladies who visit the harem are, on entering, examined by eunuchs, who also inscribe the names of the visitors and those of their attendants. In spite of the great precautions taken, it has once or twice happened that a man has been smuggled into the harem, and I lately heard the story of a laborer having been found on the roof of the women's apartment. He was advised to affect madness—which was hardly necessary, as fear had already made him idiotic—and it was explained that he had got into the harem through an underground water canal, in which he had been working. It speaks well for the Shah that the man was let off scot-free, formerly he and several women would have been executed there and then. It occasionally happens that the Shah comes into the women's apartments when European ladies were there on a visit. He then asks who the visitors are, what their age is, and makes some observations on their looks. He is not complimentary; and some time ago a lady was horrified at being told by His Majesty that she was old, ugly and lean. The Shah also occasionally asks other indiscreet questions, and makes some cynical remarks. Every wife has a separate yearly allowance varying from $200 to $2,000, and often receives presents exceeding her allowance in value.

WORTH THE EFFORT.

The JOURNAL heartily concurs with the Gazette in the subjoined:
The people of Reno have shown an admirable disposition in the anti-Chinese movement. They have been forced in self-defense to do something, otherwise the Chinamen leaving Truckee, Carson and other towns would flood the place. Under pledges of support from the entire community, a steam laundry has been purchased and is ready for work. Almost all the cooks, house-cleaners, etc., have already been let out. The vegetable peddlers and laundrymen still pursue their vocations but will be cut off next Sunday, and with a little more perseverance on the part of this people the question will be solved. It is the universal desire of every one to see them go and so long as this is the case people should not cavil as to methods. We have heard no one say they did not desire the change, but some are very touchy about how it shall be made. This is childish and unbecoming where there is so much at stake. The arguments have been gone over so often that it is needless to repeat them, but when we can rid the town of an opium smoking gambling nest and replace its inhabitants with white people who will add largely to the circulating medium of the country, it seems as though it was worth quite a sacrifice.

STINSON & CO., Portland, Maine.

It is a matter of grave doubt whether the Morrow bill to further restrict Chinese immigration will be reached during the present session of Congress. If it had received the hearty approval of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, it would undoubtedly be called up when the committee has its day in the House, but it does not receive such approval. Belmont has stated that he will try to call up his Diplomatic and Consular bill when the committee has its day, in which case the Morrow bill would go on the calendar and would never be reached. This would decide the fate of Chinese legislation for this session.

Senator Stanford has a speech prepared on interstate commerce, which he will deliver as soon as that measure is brought up in the Senate. Stanford has prepared his speech with a great deal of care, having dictated it to his secretary and then revised it, when it was printed with a type-writer. Stanford also has prepared a speech on the life and services of General Miller, which will be delivered on the day set for memorial services in honor of the deceased Senator.

The bill passed the House Saturday creating a new Federal judicial district in Southern California. It provides that the following counties shall be included within its boundaries: San Diego, San Bernardino, Los Angeles, Ventura, Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Fresno, Tulare and Kern. The bill also provides that the present court shall have charge of all Federal cases now pending before it from those counties.

John Kelly is worse than he was some time ago. His appetite is poor. His old stomach complaint is again troubling him, and, as a result, he is again suffering from insomnia. While there is no immediate danger, his condition is such as to occasion his relatives grave apprehension. As soon as the weather is settled Kelly will probably be removed to the county, where he will have absolute rest and quiet.

The London Standard, commenting on the strikes in the United States, says that they "will strain the resources of American statesmanship, as they have only once been tried since the war of independence to keep the conflict within the bounds of legality and constitutional order. Republican institutions are still on their trial. It looks as if the social difficulty would become their severest test."

It is thought that the Austrian Minister does not intend to return to Washington, as all his household effects are advertised for sale on Thursday next. Shaeffer's withdrawal now means a complete severance of diplomatic relations, and Secretary Bayard will not recommend the appointment of any Minister to Austria, on account of the rejection of Kelley.

It is reported that Cassidy has written from Washington that no peace has been patched up between himself and Senator Fair, and that none will be as far as he is concerned. He intends to fight the Senator from the drop of the hat. Our Democratic friends should insist upon peace and harmony in the party.

Last Sunday evening, while Postmaster Smith, of Candelaria, was distributing the mail, a Chinaman broke through a window to burglarize. Mrs. Smith called in a neighbor and the thief was frightened off. Another residence was entered and everything of value taken.

Democrats as well as Republicans are now settling to the belief that the present session of Congress will last into August, notwithstanding the talk by members of the House, and especially some Democrats, about getting away the latter part of June.

The fund for Mrs. Hancock has reached $13,042, and is still growing.

OPPOSED TO FREE TRADE.

Powerful Protest Against the Morrison Bill.

The free trade Democrats are beginning to hear from farmers and woolen manufacturers in regard to the Morrison Tariff bill. Petitions and memorials from Patrons of Husbandry and from manufacturers protesting against the bill are arriving here in large numbers. Manufacturers point out the disastrous consequences of the agitation of the question, the apprehension of unfavorable legislation being scarcely less disastrous than the reality. The National Association of Wool Manufacturers, in a letter to the Secretary of the Treasury on the subject, says: "To a country enjoying a tariff system which it has accepted and to which it has adapted itself, tariff agitation is an incalculable calamity. It paralyzes enterprise, frightens capital, depreciates values and deranges labor. Although there is a difference of opinion as to the extent of such influence, it cannot be denied that tariff agitation, among other causes, has materially contributed to the great and accelerating industrial and commercial depression of the last four years. Our European competitors are free from oppressive changes in the value of wool such as has taken place in this country in consequence of no less than seventeen changes in the tariff on wools within the memory of living manufacturers." The communication recites that what is needed is not free wool or a lower tariff on woolen manufacturers. If the bill is taken up for consideration in the House or should even come to vote on its provisions, the number of amendments offered will be legion. While Morrison has been wasting time in the preparation of such a bill, the Senate Finance Committee has been preparing a thorough measure on the question of under-valuations. This is now nearly complete, and it will probably be the only measure affecting the tariff that will have any chance of passing Congress.

Mr. Blaine.

The Call says probably no readers will be deceived by the statements of Mr. Blaine's friends that he does not give any thought to politics. There never was a time when Mr. Blaine wanted to be President more than he does now, and perhaps never a time when he stood a better chance of election. Mr. Blaine has been prominently before three conventions in the last of which he obtained the coveted nomination. His candidacy in 1884 showed greater strength than his rivals in the party gave him credit for. He lost the election by a very small majority in the State of New York. Two or three causes were in operation to effect this result which may not exist in a future contest. The canvass demonstrated a positive strength which no man in the party now living can be said to possess. It is not at all probable under these conditions that Mr. Blaine will voluntarily retire while in the very prime of life. If he should see that he cannot get the nomination, or that he could not be elected if nominated, he would doubtless decline to be a candidate. But at present no man sees so far into the future as that.

United States vs. Pacific Railroad.

The Pacific Railroad bill, as unanimously passed upon by the House Committee, makes provision for the payment of the indebtedness of the Pacific Railroad to the Government after the following plan: To the present debt is added the interest that would accrue during the lifetime (eleven years) of the existing bonds, assuming that no further payments are made by the companies. The total is divided into fourteen equal payments, which are represented by a series of bonds falling due semi-annually. The last bond, maturing seventy years after the issue of the average annual payments by the companies, would reach nearly $4,000,000, which, it is estimated, would amount to a sum greater than the principal of the debt before the existing bonds would mature.

The Victor mine at Candelaria has been sold to an English company which recently erected a 30 stamp mill. It is expected that the sale will place the camp on its old prosperous footing.

ACTIVE SILVER MEN.

How They are Enlightening the People of the East.

The New York Tribune says: Silver men have an organization which is known as the National Bi-Metallic Coinage Association, with headquarters at Washington, which they are using as a means of reaching voters in the East to influence public opinion in their favor. Senator Jones, of Nevada, is President. The Secretary is H. M. Slater. He was here recently and said: "We have one prime object to secure—free and unlimited coinage of silver, the same as gold. We have no war to make on gold; we believe we can educate the people to the belief in a bi-metallic standard, and that then our object will be accomplished. We advocate free coinage as the thing most likely to bring about bi-metallicism at once. Secretary Manning is not correct in his view—the suspension of silver coinage as necessary to force foreign nations into the bi-metallic conference. We are sending literature into all the Eastern States to inform the people on the silver question. They write us daily that they can get only one side of the silver question and want to hear both sides. Silver clubs are springing up in the East. There is a strong one at New Haven and all through the interior of New York they have been started."

A WATER RIGHTS DECISION.

The California Supreme Court Stands by the Doctrine of Riparian Rights.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—The famous riparian rights litigation, which has been before the California Courts for years past and often before the Legislature on a question as to whether the old Common Law of riparian rights, or the Roman Law of appropriation is paramount, has been finally settled by the Supreme Court decision, handed down Monday, which establishes the doctrine of riparian rights and upsets the theory that any person has a legal right to appropriate and divert the waters of a stream. The opinion is by Justice McKinstry; concurred in by Justices McKee, Thornton and Sharpstein. The dissenting opinion was signed by Chief Justice Morrison and Justices Ross and Myrick.

The President has received a telegram from H. Clay Hall, Department Commander, transmitting a copy of the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted by the encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic a few days ago at New York City:

WHEREAS, It is proper that veterans, irrespective of party, should recognize anything done by a public official which demonstrates his intention to carry out the promises made to men who dared death for their country; and, whereas, we have reason to believe, through declarations and actions, that Hon. Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, means to carry out the principle that veterans, when competent, are entitled to recognition, because of the service rendered their country in time of war; therefore, be it

Resolved, That the Department of New York, Grand Army of the Republic, representing an organized body of 35,000 veterans of the war, in annual session assembled in New York City April 21, 1886, view his course in this respect with satisfaction, and hereby put itself on record as approving the conscientious discharge of this patriotic duty, believing it to be the wish of the President that the letter and spirit of all enactments in favor of the veteran shall be faithfully carried out by all those in subordinate authority having the power of appointment to employment or retention in the service of the Government under his administration; and, be it further

Resolved, That these resolutions be telegraphed to the President, in the name of the Encampment, and that a copy of the same, duly authenticated by the Department Commander and Adjutant General, be forwarded to him by mail.

The Candelaria True Fissure, of last Saturday says: "During a visit to Belleville last Tuesday the editor was assured that Powning is the choice of the Republicans of that town for Senator. They might go further and fare worse."

An appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court has been taken in the case of the Moran Brothers, of New York, vs. the Nevada and Oregon Railroad Company and others. The bonds represented in the case amount to $147,000.

DEMOCRATIC TIMBER.

Men who Have Their Eyes on the Presidency in 1888.

Corr. S. F. Post.

Two years hence both of the great political parties will be agitated over the choice of a standard bearer for the campaign of 1888. As a matter of fact, there is but one man in the field who is doing his best to start a boom for himself, and that man is Grover Cleveland of New York, but whose present address is "Executive Mansion, Washington, D. C." In his honest desire to give the people of the country a good administration—and up to the present time no one questions the honesty of his intentions—he, by sheer force of circumstances of the situation, is obliged either to commend himself to the respect of his fellow citizens, or to subject himself to the adverse criticisms of Democrats as well as Republicans. Upon the whole the Republican party is well satisfied with the results of the first year of Mr. Cleveland's administration. He has made blunders, of course, and which were to be expected of a man who came into the executive chair personally unknown to the leaders of the Democratic organization; but the fact remains that he is criticised more savagely by men who belong to his own party than he is by his political antagonists. Much can be done within the next two years to restore harmony in the Democratic party. There is scarcely a leader who is now arrayed against the administration who cannot be approached and conciliated by a judicious use of federal patronage. Will the President do this and stultify himself and the record he has made thus far? Is the question which, if answered favorably, may nominate him in 1888. If self-stultification is the price of renomination, it can safely be said that Grover Cleveland will not be the standard-bearer of his party in the next national canvass.

CLEVELAND'S HOPES.

But Cleveland has an entirely different object in view. He believes that before two years have elapsed his party will have climbed up to the high moral plane to which he and his advisors are endeavoring to elevate it. In short, Mr. Cleveland is testing the sincerity of the Democratic party in a number of ways, but more especially upon the question of civil service reform. There is some talk to the effect that Cleveland will not be a candidate again before the Convention. He said as much before he had tasted the sweetness of presidential office-holding, but it is a fact worthy of mention that he has not been saying much upon that topic since his inauguration.

Perhaps the most convincing evidence of the President's intention not to run again is the fact that there are in his Cabinet at least two avowed candidates for the Presidency. Mr. Bayard's name has been before several conventions and it is safe to say that it will be brought up again in the next national powwow of the Democracy. Nothing that he can do, save a positive refusal to run, will save him from some delegates in the convention.

MR. WHITNEY IS AFTER THE NOMINATION.

Unless all of the usual signs of the times are incorrect. The Whitneys are the social lions of the hour. The White House receptions pale before the splendor of the entertainments given at the palatial home of the Secretary of the Navy. It is quietly whispered here that a gentleman by the name of Samuel J. Tilden is backing the aspirations of the sharp young man at the head of the Navy Department. There is no getting away from the fact that the Whitneys have been the mainstays of the social season. Their hospitality has been boundless, and this, combined with the clever manner in which Mrs. Whitney has managed affairs, has served to bring the head of the house into unusual prominence. If Secretary Whitney really is a candidate, he will have the backing of the shrewdest, sharpest politicians in the Democratic party yoked to unlimited wealth. Mr. Whitney could knock in the head of the biggest "bar" of any of the candidates, and this fact of itself is not to be sneezed at by any means. Of all the members of the Cabinet, Whitney is the most formidable opponent to the President's chances for a renomination.

WHISPERS OF VILAS.

Of the remainder of Mr. Cleveland's official advisers, one hears an occasional word for Postmaster General Vilas, but no Postmaster General can get the nomination. The interests of the Postoffice Department are so diversified, reaching into every home in the land, that a slight mistake will draw forth the condemnation of entire communities, while a benefit will scarcely bring out a word of praise. Gresham came as near satisfying the public as any man who has been Postmaster General for many years, and he recognized the fact that the presentation of his name before the convention of 1884 would be a useless proceeding, and so he quietly but firmly announced his refusal to run, and his advocacy of the nomination of President Arthur.

Of the others in the Cabinet, Endicott comes from a Republican State, which is not a debatable ground, even leaving entirely out of consideration the fact that he is not a national character outside of the position which he holds.

Garland is not to be thought of for a moment, and Lamar is in the same category, although not by reason of the same causes.

CARLISLE, RANDALL AND MORRISON.

In Congress there are just three men who are considered as candidates. They are Carlisle, Randall and Morrison. The Democratic side of the Senate chamber does not show a single man who can be called a Presidential candidate. All of them may have aspirations, but they are very careful to keep them to themselves.

On the Republican side Sherman, Edmunds, Logan, Hawley, Everts and Stanford are all talked about for the nomination, but there isn't a single Democratic Senator whose name is even discussed as a possibility. The probable cause of this is that the greater portion of the Democratic Senators represent Southern States, and the time has not yet come when a candidate from that section can carry the country. This may or may not be sectionalism, but it is the truth. A few years ago there were Bayard and Pendleton on the Democratic side, with the Presidential bee buzzing in their bonnets. Probably the same seductive insect is still singing his sweet song in their ears, but as far as Presidential candidates are concerned, alas, the Senate cannot furnish a single stick of Democratic timber.

The House, however, has men there who will be in the race as long as they are in public life. The first and strongest of these is Speaker Carlisle. He is the idol of his state, and can have his solid delegation for the asking. Just at the present time Carlisle is Kentucky's favorite son. He could have been elected to the Senate to succeed "Cerro Gordo" Williams had he but said the word, but he declined, because he had promised to support Senator Blackburn. He will probably be re-elected Speaker just as long as the Democrats retain control of the House, and this fact of itself will bring him into unusual prominence before the next convention. Carlisle is one of the most popular men in the South, notwithstanding that he was loyal during the war and fought in the Union army. He and Morrison would probably divide the revenue reform strength, unless there came a direct contest between the two in convention, when the Illinois statesman would have to go to the wall.

Morrison is a candidate who would be peculiarly acceptable to the Western Democracy. He is a rough, blunt spoken man, and has a habit of saying just what he thinks of men and measures without much or any thought or fear of the consequences. This suits the average Westerner, and with them he is very popular. At present it is difficult to discern that he has much or any strength outside of his own State, as the revenue reformers are generally in favor of Carlisle, should his name be proposed. Randall is

THE DEMOCRATIC SPRING.

He is a strong man in the East, and has no inconsiderable strength in the protective districts of the South, and, while he will be a candidate, there is not the remotest possibility of his nomination. There are other Democrats who would like to be considered as candidates, but they are those who are mentioned by no other people than themselves. The Democratic Convention of 1888 will not be without its exciting features, no matter who is nominated. There will be plenty of candidates before the vote is taken, and the winner will not be lonesome in the race, as the list of early starters given above will testify.

Advice to Mothers.

Are you disturbed at night and broken of your rest by a sick child suffering and crying with pain of cutting teeth? If so, send at once and get a bottle of Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething. Its value is incalculable. It will relieve the poor little sufferer immediately. Depend upon it, mothers, there is no mistake about it. It cures dysentery and diarrhoea, regulates the stomach and bowels, cures wind colic, softens the gums, reduces inflammation, and gives tone and energy to the whole system. Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup for Children Teething is pleasant to the taste, and is the prescription of one of the eldest and best female nurses and physicians in the United States, and is for sale by all druggists throughout the world. Price 25 cents a bottle. Feb. 21-sw-1yr

The Carson Tribune of Monday says: Hon. W. M. Stewart arrived yesterday morning and will become a permanent resident. He was warmly welcomed by many at the depot.

Miss Mary Young, who for the past year has been giving violin and piano lessons in Virginia City, arrived home Saturday evening and returned to the Comstock yesterday morning.

Frank Pollard did the prompting for the Virginia Orchestra at the Odd Fellows dance Monday evening. His calling was good and could be distinctly heard all over the crowded hall.

It is rumored that J. W. Whitchee, editor of the Virginia Enterprise, will be a candidate before the Republican State Convention for the nomination of Superintendent of Public Instruction.

In addition to having been recently robbed by a dishonest partner, A. M. Lamb, the Truckee Meadows rancher, has also lost two valuable horses. They both died in a few hours after being taken sick.

John Douglas has opened a fine gravel pit back of the Court House and is going to use it on the streets. The Commissioners expect to buy the ground. It will be just the thing for making good streets.

E. E. Parr was tried yesterday in the Justice Court for stealing a suit of clothes, the property of George Ronge, valued at $35, was convicted by a jury, waived time and was sentenced to pay a fine of $120 or 60 days in jail. He was taken over the river.

TRAIN DISPATCHER.—Mr. O'Brien, who has been night operator at Truckee for some time, has been appointed train dispatcher on the C. P. R. R., with headquarters at Wadsworth.

BUREAU OF INFORMATION NEEDED.—Almost daily in some one or more of the departments of our State Government letters are received asking about the agricultural, mining, grazing and other resources of the State. A letter has just been received by General Preble from the Sturtevant Mill Company, of Boston, which reads as follows: Dear Sir: Will you please mail us the last annual report of the analysis and commercial values of commercial fertilizers and chemicals for your State, and oblige yours truly, Sturtevant Mill Co. Numerous letters directed to the State Mineralogist are received. Reports are asked for, descriptions of the formations in the various mining districts, the yield of bullion from the various mines and other similar questions. But in our State there is no Commissioner of Agriculture, no Commissioner of Mining, no Bureau of Information that can answer these questions of capitalists seeking investments for their money. All of these sources of information are found in other and more prosperous States. Nevada can never hope to be prosperous until its business is placed on a business basis, and no business is prosperous that has not been made so through a judicious and generous advertising. So says the Free Lance.

NEVADA'S SCHOOL SYSTEM COMPLIMENTED.—The Free Lance says: The City Board of Education of San Francisco, by a resolution recently adopted, now recognizes life diplomas of Nevada. A person holding a Nevada life diploma can now get (without an examination) a first-grade certificate to teach in any of the public schools of San Francisco. Teachers' certificates of San Francisco are recognized in nearly every, if not every county in that State. Virtually then, Nevada life diplomas are recognized throughout California. This is the first and only recognition that our Nevada certificates have ever received outside of Nevada. Not only is this a high compliment paid to our system of giving State credentials to teachers but there are many Nevada teachers who will accept the courtesies extended by the San Francisco school authorities.

NEVADA AT THE FAT STOCK SHOW.—The Carson Free Lance remarks: One of our leading stock men suggested that Nevada should be represented at the National Fat Stock Show which meets annually at Chicago in the month of November. To place a fat steer there to compete for the first prize would cost probably $1,000. Several of the leading breeders of the State should be willing to share the expense. It would advertise not only one head but the herds represented by the Cattle Association of Nevada. It is believed that from any one of several herds of the State a three-year-old steer might be selected that could be made to weigh 3,000 pounds.

ADVERTISED LETTERS.—The following is the list of advertised letters remaining in the Reno, Nevada, Postoffice, Saturday, April 24, 1886.

THE NEW JUDICIAL LAW.—The constitutionality of the new Judicial law was argued before the Supreme Court Monday by Judge King, Hon. R. H. Lindsay and Gen. R. M. Clarke. H. F. Bartine yesterday concluded the argument against the bill. The attorneys for the law are very confident that the law will stand.

CARSON MINT.—Supt. Garrard, of the Carson Mint, has been interviewed relative to its opening. Since Secretary Manning became unable to attend to his duties nothing has been done in this direction. Senator Fair is doing all he can but the Major says that the prospects of resuming operations at the Mint are anything but encouraging.

REPUBLICAN COMMITTEE.—Members of the Republican State Central Committee will please read the call in our advertising columns to-day for a meeting to be held on May 20, at Exempt Firemen's Hall, in Virginia City.

NEVADA'S CAPITOL TO BE DISGRACED.—The Free Lance says:

It has been proposed to sell the opera house to have it converted into a barn, a cow-shed or a hen-house. The stockholders pretend to imagine that the house is boycotted, and have proposed to sell it for $1,000, or give it away, or burn it down—anything to get even with this Anti-Chinese town for this supposed boycott. Well, all right, the first ones to suffer will be the well-to-do stockholders. Let this disgrace come to Carson, and her citizens will have cause to wail long and loud. When Carson City fails to have one public hall, to keep open one place for amusements, then the glory of the capital of Nevada shall have departed. Reno or some other public-spirited town will come down on our little village like a wolf on the fold and capture our other public buildings. A town with so little public spirit is no place for a capital; a town with so little enterprise can not expect to appropriate to its own selfish uses the property of a generous people; a town whose leading citizens are either too stingy or mean to provide a place for political, or other public gatherings, can not expect favors from our State Legislature. So the people will think; and in accordance with this sentiment the Legislature will not be slow to act. Our enemies would need but one such argument as this for a battering ram to knock down the walls of the Capitol, State Prison, Orphans' Home and Armory, and substitute for them others on the banks of the Truckee. There must be some mistake; it cannot be that there is any foundation in the rumor current on the streets, and already in print, that the Opera House is to be sold at a bankrupt sale to the highest bidder, and converted to other uses.
